The recent annual meeting of the Forum for Awareness of National Security (FANS) brought together its members to reflect on a year filled with purposeful engagement and impactful initiatives. A cornerstone of FANS's mission is dialogue and discussion on the various aspects of national security, social development, cultural enrichment, and the environment, and this year was no exception. Moreover, community outreach remained a focal point, with members actively involved in organisational activities. Initiatives such as conferences, seminars, media chawpal, educational workshops, and environmental projects underscored their commitment to making a positive difference in society.

On the first day of the AGM, Shri Indresh Kumar Ji, National Executive Member, RSS and the patron and inspiration of FANS, shared his views on the theme of "A New Global Order! Vikshit Bharat! Divya Bharat!" He quoted a sloka from Ramayana, jananī janmabhūmiśca svargādapi garīyasi (Mother and motherland are superior to Heaven), to explain the ethos and true nature of Bharat. He said Bharat has responded to the world through knowledge and set an example through her character and behaviour. He also deliberated on the different aspects of national security and provided a road map to achieve the objective of A New Global Order! Vikshit Bharat! Divya Bharat!

Shri Vijay Manohar Tiwari highlighted that India has never perpetrated violence or colonised any other country, and we must strive hard to preserve her rich tradition and culture. Shri K.J. Singh observed that Bharat has set an example by rescuing people from the war-ridden zones. According to him, this clearly shows the emergence of powerful Bharat. He also shed light on India's growing economic power and how it will change the current global situation. He also focused on women-led development and how they have contributed to social and national development in every field of society.

Shri Golok Bihari Rai said that our 'Developed India' goal is not just comforts and material development, but our idea is to give direction to the world. We must continuously make collective efforts to build a developed and Divya Bharat. India has to become an ideal superpower. Shri Avedh Kumar, the Senior journalist, said that for many years, the spirit of service has been a core value of Indian tradition. Making sacrifices for others in India has always been considered the highest goal of human life. Today, India is giving direction to the world. India has to become not just a military power but an economic power, too; India has to become an ideal superpower.

Shri J.P. Sharma shared his “One Nation, One Law” ideas with the august assembly. He said that in 1830 when Britishers came to India, they thought of a law system through which they could penalise and punish Indians. Now, the law should be reformed according to the needs of our society, and it should be India-centric and reflect Indian ethos.

Singh pondered over the Indian principle of solution through dialogue and discussion. In his deliberation, Dr Anil Somitra, Regional Director IIMC, Jammu Kashmir, discussed the importance of media and virtual platforms. He focused on the transforming landscape of communication and the medium of information dissemination. A team of FANS from Arunachal Pradesh, including Dr Robin Hissang and V.N. Pandey, shared information about various programmes they conducted in the Arunachal region.

The FANS team also shared information related to its journals Lok Sambhasan and Raksham. They urged all members to share their ideas and views through articles, research papers, and reviews.
